

Menção honrosa

Lies, selfishness and greed might get your bank account rising, but helping one in need is guaranteed to get him smiling.

Cooperation, consideration, I could write a dissertation about how being friends with one another makes you deserve a standing ovation.

Now let's talk about tolerance and how it is much too uncommon, it really shouldn't matter whether you're German or Moroccan.

No one chooses their nation, so let's celebrate our diversity, or maybe our civilization will face great adversity.

It's also quite important to maintain worldwide peace because with stuff like bombs we aren't staying in one piece.

By now you should be starting to understand my argument but if you believe I'm lying and you say values are determinant then you shouldn't find it surprising if people consider you arrogant.

And now I want to conclude: human values are fundamental, if you have the right attitude you can make the world better.